

Spin-on Type OIL SEPARATORS

This method of oil separation consists of a deep bed type oil separator element, placed inside of a pressure resistant body, or “can” similar to that of traditional oil filters. Extremely easy to replace in comparison to standard oil-separators which are enclosed in a pressurized tank, this element design is somewhat limited in application due to restrictions of air flow capacity.